Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,

But established for the benefit of all.

MONDAY, SEPT. 10, 1888.

RESIGNED.

Mrs. E. R. Hendry has resigned

her position in Fort street School to the regret of the Board of Education as well as of pupils and parents of pupils of that institution. Mrs.

Hendry has been vice-principal of Fort street School for a period of five years, which position she has filled with credit to herself and satisfaction to the Board of Education.

She not only entered upon her duties there with the qualifications of training and experience as an instructor of youth, but with the natural gifts essential to the successful teacher, and the results of her labors of the "returning" vice-principal's efficiency. Quoting from the last biennial report of the Board of Education, "Fort street School is practically the Government High School, and the pupils get a very thorough practical education. Especial attention is paid to writing and composition throughout the school, and there is no doubt that in these studies

Fort street School excels any other educational establishment in this Kingdom, public or private."

A full share of the credit for this condition of the school is due to Mrs. Hendry; from which the natural inference is that the lady's withdrawal will be a felt loss to that institution.

REPREHENSIBLE.

This morning's "Advertiser" has an account of a collision between two brakes on Saturday last, one being occupied by Miss Debbie

Lyle, (daughter of Mr. Lyle of the Marine Railway), and her infant niece, and the other by a man and woman, presumably unknown. The latter ran into the former. Miss Debbie was thrown from her brake, stunned, and otherwise injured. The occupants of the vehicle doing the mischief did not stop to render assistance, or even to ascertain the amount of injury done, but drove rapidly off.

Such a proceeding is highly reprehensible. Whether the collision was the result of rapid or careless driving, the record does not say; but there can be little doubt that it was. However, the least that the couple would have done, had they been possessed of manly and womanly feeling, would have been to render all assistance in their power to the injured party. Their conduct marks them as inhuman creatures, whoever they are.

The circumstance furnishes an opportunity to return to an old subject which has received considerable attention from this paper in times past, viz.: fast driving through the streets and on the public thoroughfares. Our labor has hitherto been in vain. The practice still continues, and is more rampant to-day than it ever was before. Rattling along the streets and around corners at a furious pace, just as if life depended on reaching the destination in 1-10, is the regular custom. Public expresses and private conveyances are alike guilty. The danger to life and limb is ignored by drivers and by the authorities whose duty it is to care for the public safety. What wonder if accidents are frequent? When a Minister or some other distinguished personage gets a broken limb or a broken neck, we may hope for reformation in this line, but scarcely before.

OUR GLORIOUS CONSTITUTION.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Notwithstanding the many and varied attacks made upon the present Hawaiian Constitution, I contend that it is, unamended, the best suited for these islands that could be "hatched up;" although I admit that it might be unsuitable to the needs of a civilized nation.

The Hawaiian Constitution is generally believed to be a contradictory, inconsistent, incongruous and unsafe guide in all matters which it is intended to regulate; but, nevertheless, I cleave to the opinion that the contrary is the fact.

The glorious Constitution of the Hawaiian Kingdom is one of the most prolific and accommodating documents ever drawn up by the art of man—it proves everything, helps everybody, and is gradually invading the household and regulating the affairs of everyday life. As an instance of this my boy refused to eat porridge the other day; because it was unconstitutional when more expensive dishes were on the table.

Properly viewed the Hawaiian Constitution is like an accommodating "vest pocket" that has only to be searched to find out the treasure it contains. Should a kanaka legislator oppose a bill or motion in the House he appeals to a rule or clause of the Constitution as supporting his opinion; and the fellow on the other side flings back, as a retort, another clause of the same document.

Thus the Constitution is handy and invaluable to all parties and factions as a political sand bag, used but never abused.

Another important advantage of the document is the readiness with which its separate rules and provisions can be laid aside when occasion requires, as witness the arbitrary exclusion of the public from a Legislative committee meeting last Saturday in express opposition to Rule 27 of the Constitution. The rules of the Hawaiian Constitution have certain folding arrangements by which they can be removed and suspended as easily as are the rules of the Legislative Chamber. This is a grand convenience, because the Constitution might otherwise get seriously in the way and be hurt.

Another great advantage possessed by our glorious Constitution, is its characteristics of Monarchical and Republican institutions so beautifully mixed and blended so that we, poor Hawaiians, cannot tell "which is better." That is just as it should be; because we must believe the Constitution to be Hawaiian or nothing.

Hawaiians must create and evolve their constitutions themselves, and the wisdom, profundity of study and erudition apparent in the Hawaiian Constitution, shows conclusively the progress of our development in this direction as a people, and the great aptitude we have for self-government.

It is all very well to say that the "thing" was hastily gotten up, and must necessarily be imperfect; but I maintain that this circumstance was fortunate in giving to our glorious Constitution the conglomerate, comprehensiveness, angularity and feasibility necessary to its usefulness, convenience, and adaptability to the wants and whims of Hawaiian legislators of the straight type or the curly.

I trust that His Majesty, with or without the advice of his quartette of august responsible or irresponsible Ministers, will send a copy of the Hawaiian Constitution to the Melbourne Exposition before it closes, to inform all the ends of the earth of the wisdom and greatness prevailing on these "isles of the sea," as embodied and reflected in the unique document which we swear to support whether we know its contents or not. It might also be advisable to send with the sacred document the portraits of the quartette of Ministers, which would be unique "Cabinet" pictures and convey a fair idea of what kind of government we have in the Hawaiian Kingdom.

Tau Boo.

Honolulu, Sept. 10, 1888.

[Tau Boo has mixed up the Constitution with the Rules of the House. There is no "Rule 27 of the Constitution," and the Article of that document so numbered relates to reprieves and pardons.—Ed.]

EXPLAINED.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Your editorial in the issue of the 7th inst. shows plainly that "You don't quite understand."

I will explain:

On the 11th day of June, 1888, I addressed a letter to the Minister of Finance, requesting him to allow Dr. Hillebrand's books, treating about the "Flora of Hawaii," to come in duty free, if he could lawfully do so.

The following day the Minister told me that he had received my letter, that he favored the idea, but that under the existing statutes he did not see his way clear to grant such permission, and that the matter had been referred to the Attorney-General for his opinion.

On the same day the Attorney-General told me that he had looked up the law, but was in doubt, whether the law which permits goods duty free, if for "educational purposes," was applicable in this case. He assured me, however, that he was in sympathy with the object in view, and would draw up a special bill to lay before the House.

Here the matter rested. No doubt the Attorney-General had other work to do and I had almost forgotten the matter, when the vessel which had the books on board arrived week before last, after an exceptionally long voyage.

Then the question was re-opened and the bill presented to the Legislature by a member of the Cabinet. I believe that this explanation will satisfy all fair-minded people that this bill was not brought before the House by the Attorney-General, in order to further any private schemes at this late date.

The House killed the bill as everyone knows. But I shall take an opportunity at some future date, to inform a portion of this community, who don't know, to what extent this people and country are indebted to Dr. Hillebrand.

The last action in life the doctor took for the benefit of this country was the arranging for the printer his manuscript of the "Flora of Hawaii."

Towards the publication of this work the Prussian Government paid the sum of 1000mk—equal to $250—which shows that at least in one portion of the globe certain work is appreciated.

I asked only for a remission of duty amounting to $125.50, which the Government could not have collected if this book had not been written. A. JAEGER.

Honolulu, Sept. 9, 1888.

[Our correspondent seems to have missed the point or intention of our brief article. We have not and had not the slightest objection to the remission of duties of the book. In fact, believed and believe it would have been the proper thing to have done. Nor did we intimate or suppose that any private interest would be served thereby. Our idea was, that a member of the Government had no more right to introduce a private bill after the expiration of the time allowed for private bills, than any other member of the House. Only this and nothing more. Under a suspension of the rules any member can do so, and can, properly.—Ed.]
